2010 Academic Scholarships

Each year The Georgia Trust for Historic Preservation awards two $1,000 and two $1,500 scholarships to encourage the study of historic preservation and related fields. Recipients are chosen on the basis of leadership and academic achievement. The Georgia Trust established its scholarship program to ensure that knowledgeable leaders continue to enter the field of historic preservation.

These scholarships are presented to encourage the pursuit of degrees that will lead to working in the preservation field and thereby assist The Georgia Trust in its goals to conserve Georgia's built environment, inform the public about the benefits of historic preservation, and assist individuals and communities in their restoration and preservation projects.

Hubert Owens Scholarship: This $1,000 scholarship is given in honor of the founding deal of the University of Georgia Landscape Architecture Program— now the School of Environmental Design— which houses the Historic Preservation Program.

B. Phinzy Spalding Scholarship: This $1,000 scholarship is named after the late charter member of The Georgia Trust and one of the state's pre-eminent historians, educators and preservationists.

National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Georgia: These $1,500 scholarships promote excellence in the study of American history and historic preservation. Applicants with family affiliations to The National Society of the Colonial Dames of America are not eligible for the NSCDA-GA scholarship.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens and residents of Georgia. Students currently enrolled in their first year of school in Georgia may apply. Applicants also must plan to enroll full time during the current or upcoming semesters at a Georgia school. Students applying for the scholarships are encouraged to plan to stay and work in Georgia following graduation. Students majoring in historic preservation or related fields (such as archaeology, architecture, history and planning) are eligible. Stipends are given for current or following academic year.

Applications must include the following:

- Application form (type or print clearly in pen)
- Evidence of college registration
- Official transcript
- Resume
- 1 personal and 2 academic letters of recommendation
- Personal statement addressing why you are applying for a scholarship. Include a statement concerning previous or planned future involvement in historic preservation.

(This may include your comments on why you classify yourself as a resident of Georgia.)

Applications must be postmarked by February 16th, 2010

Applications will be evaluated on:

- The application itself
- Academic achievement
- Past and planned involvement within preservation-related fields
