

The J. Neel Reid Prize 2024

Architect J. Neel Reid

Architect Neel Reid (and his partners in Hentz, Reid & Adler) founded the Georgia School of Classicists after study at Columbia University and abroad. Many sources influenced Reid's architecture, and his interior and garden designs. His travel diary, sketchbooks, scrapbooks and extensive library reflect this. His early-twentieth-century interest in historic preservation and contextual design, in architectural education and professional standards of practice inspired others long after his tragic early death of a brain tumor in 1926.

Reid's father's family were Troup County, Georgia pioneers; he grew up in Macon, beginning apprenticeship and practice there before, in 1909, moving to Atlanta. J. Neel Reid, Architect by William R. Mitchell, Jr., published by the Georgia Trust, gives new life to Reid's rich legacy, keeping his influence fresh in this new century. The J. Neel Prize, provided by a Georgia Trust fund produced from the sale of the book, helps ensure continuation of Reid's influence among a new generation of architects.

Program Description

The J. Neel Reid Prize of up to $4,000 will be awarded to a student, an intern or a recently registered professional in the field of architecture or landscape architecture for study travel that honors the legacy of Neel Reid.

The Prize will be announced in May at the 2024 Neel Reid Lecture. The study travel should be completed within one calendar year of being received.

Eligibility Requirements:

- Applicant must be a student, intern or recently registered professional in the field of architecture or landscape architecture.
- The focus of the study travel should involve historic architecture (built prior to Neel Reid's death in 1926), historic landscapes, preservation of classic architecture or new construction that is classic and context-related.
- Applicants are encouraged to propose an independent study, but participation in an existing program is acceptable.
- The recipient will be required to provide a report to the Georgia Trust within six months or returning from study travel experience. Travel may be to any location in the world where the objectives of the program can be met.
- Priority will be given to those applicants with a connection to Georgia (a Georgia resident, a student in a Georgia academic institution, or an employee of a Georgia firm).

Applications must be emailed or postmarked by Monday, April 15, 2024
